Paris, To-day. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT with the French armies tells a thrilling story of a battle between French and German tanks in the Borg Forest.

Details of the encounter were given the correspondent by a French officer who witnessed the battle.

As the French tanks were lumbering forward through woody land, German tanks came out to meet them.

GERMAN THE NAVY

London, To-day. The Admiralty announced last night that a British naval squadron tried to engage enemy warships, who were reported to be off the south-west coast of Norway on Sunday afternoon.

The enemy warships got away in the darkness.

In the north-east area of the North Sea there have been numerous attacks by German bombers on British cruisers and destroyers.

No British ship has been damaged. The German casualties are not known. -Reuter.

10,000 MISSING IN SAAR EVACUATION

London, To-day. German radio station have been broadcasting long lists of people whose whereabouts are unknown.

They are urgently asked to report their whereabouts immediately. Some 10,000 names were given, and their former addresses show that most of them come from the Sanr dintriot.

This seems to indicate that the Saar was evacuated in such a hurry that the authorities do not know what has become of the pyacuees.—Reuter.

Firing broke out at close range without any supporting infantry or screening aeroplanes.

The opposing tanks blazed away at each other for hours at points. blank range, and the German tanks fell out one by one, their armour plating pierced and the crews dead.

The French tanks then resumed their advance.

ACTIVITY OF PATROLS Last night's French war communique says there was very great activity by German patrols between the Moselle and the Gnar.

CZECHS FORCED INTO GERMANY: CONDITIONS CENTRAL EUROPE

A FORCED MIGRATION of Czech peples from Bohemia and Moravia into Germany and of Germans from the Italian Tirol into Czech districts is now under way on a considerable scale, it was reported by the Rev. and Mrs. Waitstill H. Sharp, who have just returned after six months refugee work in Central Europe.

This migration is a part of a broad German programme to so scatter and reduce the Czech peoples as to make it difficult to maintain group strength of retain natural unity, pending a day of liberation, the Sharps declared.

The movement of Czech workmen, shorn of their homes, into Germany proper began more than three months proper began more than three months ago and when the Sharps left Prague 265,000 had been migrated from the country, according to the most authentic reports then available.

- MIGRATION OF GERMANS Germans from the Italian Tirol into the Czech districts had been under way only about a month before the Sharps prepared to return to the United States.

Would this transposition of Czech workers have the desired effect of undermining the national unity, both in Czech districts and in the groups moved away? The interview indicated the affirmative. First, the man power of the Czechs has already been weakened by the loss of 265,000 men. This loss is regarded as serious by Czech leaders. Second, as the families follow the fathers—quite naturally encouraged to do so by German deputies—the children, more suscepitble to propaganda, definitely come under German influence. Likewise disturbing to the Czechs as a factor undermining national strength is the deposition of the Germans both from the Italian Tyrol and from some parts of Germany proper in Bohemia. ### GREAT BRITAIN'S ECONOMIC MAR EFFORT

London, To-day. THE PRIME MINISTER was asked several questions in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon in connection with the country's economic war efforts.

Mr. Chamberlain stated: "The responsibility for coordinating all branches of our economic war efforts lies with the Cabinet as a whole.

"In the ease of economic and financial policy a committee has been set up under the Chancel or of the Exchequer.

"This committee is responsible for supervising the arrangements for Anglo-French economic cooperation."

Lord Stamp, Chairman of the L.M.S., had been asked to help the committee as adviser on economic by the Air Ministry of the co-ordination.

OF SITUATION

Moscow, To-day. Negotiations due to open to-morrow between the Soviet and Finland are expected to round off the expansion of Soviet interests in relation to her Baltic neighbours.

By pacts with Esthonia, Latvia and forthcoming agreements with Lithuania and Finland, the great Soviet aim of freeing Leningrad as a naval and air base from the bottle-neck of the Gulf of Finland which gave any enemy a easy means of preventing the Finnish Foreign Minister, is reported exit of the Baltic fleet will have been to gave declared: "M. Paasikivi only achieved.

To complete the programme, Russians may seek neutralisation any threat from the southern coast of Finland confronting the Gulf.

AALAND ISLANDS

It is logical to believe that Moscow would also like the control of the Aaland Islands as a base from which ultimately to control Swedish exports to Germany.

Observers are wondering if the Soviet-Lithuanian Pact will conform to the Esthonian and Latvian pacts which mentioned the name of the land frontlers whence the attacks might come. SOVIET PROBLEM

NOT SO TRACTABLE

Stockholm, To-day.

An implication that M. Paasikivi, the Finnish representative now on a visit to Moscow, has not proved so tractable as recent Baltic States representatives have been called to Moscow, is contained in despatches by the Finnish correspondents of the newspapers "Helsinki Correspondent" and "Svenska Bladet."

The despatches declare that Finland cannot agree with any proposal conflicting with her participation in the northern neutality bloc.

GIVEN ONLY 48 HOURS

Most of these Germans are wealthy merchants and traders who settled in their present countries for centuries. Yet they have been given only 48 hours to transfer themselves and their property to Germany.

In Slav circles in London this extraordinary development as believed to portend the rapid bolshevisation of the Baltic states.

Summoning the Finnish envoy to Moscow is another important development which may have an interesting sequel.

Berlin-Adolf Ritler, in keeping with his Government's emergency measures, has put himself and the staff of his Wilhelmstrasse Chancellery on a strict one-course meal basis.

Men in close contact with the Chancellery said the Fuehrer instructed his cook to strike soup and dessert from the bill of fare for the time being.

The Chancellery staff — office workers, secretaries, typists, members of the SS bodyguard and chauffeurs of adjutants — regularly eat their mid-day meal at the Casino of the Chancellery, Henceforth, everyone having meals at the Casino must present his food ticket to the kitchen attendants for them to clip off the coupons for such things as milk, meat, fats, and coffee.

MIRROR OF WORLD OPINION

DRIFTING

There is a general impression that the China Affair is now in its concluding phase. None dares to speak of it openly, but none the less the idea is prevalent.

If The people are told that they should expect that the China campaign will last for an indefinite length of time, but they know that the fight cannot go on forever. They survey the general situation and tell themselves that it is going to end before long.

This attitude may be wrong, but not unnatural because they have no idea of the goal their country is aiming at. They are left in the dark because there seems no national policy to guide their thought. The whole China Affair was called an incident, but it would have been truer to say it began as an accident. If there is any national policy about the proposed peaceful construction in China, the people have seen nothing of it. At least there has been no achievement to bear testimony to such policy. And yet the people are supposed to stand behind what their Government is doing in China. It may be shown that Chinese are better able to take care of their own affairs than the Japanese. It should be hardly surprising if Wang Ching-wei found himself one of these days the leader of Japan's own, independent diplomacy. -"Japan Times."

THE BREMEN INCIDENT

Some of the reasons for the overelaborate portrinspection that prevented the German liner Bremen from leaving New York for Bremerhaven under emergency orders may be listed under Nuisance Value in Uncle Sam's crisis file. Yet it is not unlikely that the Bremen and her sister ship, the Modern warfare cannot be consider-Europa, figure prominently in what-ed only as the explosive collision of ever plans Germany has mapped out military forces but also and specially for wartime operations at sea, and that of moral forces. Breakup of the Washington realises this.

Germany's two 27-knot superliners were built to mount guns fore and aft in the event of war, and with their large carrying capacity they could stow enough fuel and stores to operate a long time and a long distance from any friendly port. Each is equipped with catapults for launching airplanes

Turning commerce raiders loose to prey upon the enemy's trade routes, single-ship encounters, and quick, massed sorties against a detached enemy force are likely stratagems for a nation which admittedly lacks a decisive preponderance of power at sea. There is no alternative for such a nation but to see its smaller force gather rust, unused, within its coastal defences. This fact stresses the value a navy committed to hit-and-run warfare naturally attaches to its top-speed merchant liners. It is logical to presume, therefore, that Federal authorities were also mindful of it.

By holding up the Bremen as long as it was legally possible, they exploited the opportunity offered thereby to add an extra ounce to the pressures which the democracies are piling up in the present crisis to bolster their diplomatic front.—"Christian Science Monitor."

was 4,062,800.

DECLINE IN PUPILS The growth of Greater London at the expense of the administrative county, according to this survey, is reflected in the decreasing number of elementary school children in the county. Their numbers have dropped from 900,000 in 1915 to 543,600 in 1937. This decline in school population is proportionately much larger than the decrease in the total population of the county.

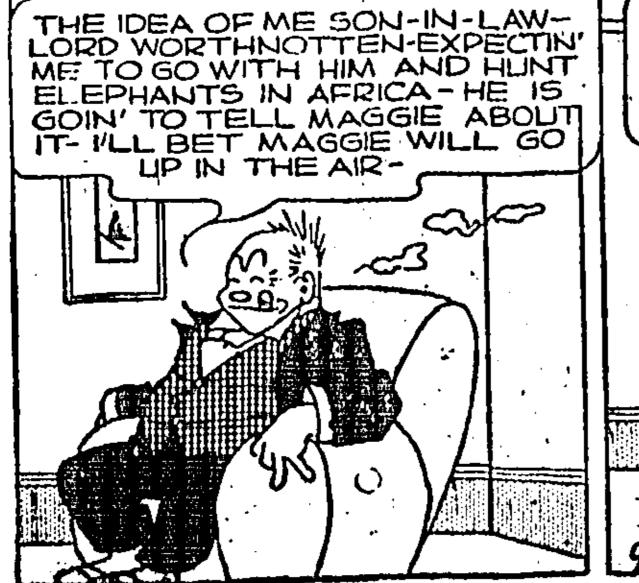

Much of Greater London's growth in population is said to be due to the concentration of a large proportion of the newer industries around! London and consequent migration of workers from other districts.

INCREASE IN BOOKS

Passing from people to the books they read, this volume gives a detailed analysis of books borrowed by London residents. During the year ended March 31, 40,116,733 books were borrowed from public libraries in Greater London.

Mr. G. Karpushess, of No. 188, The growth of public libraries in the Nathan Road, has reported that at 2 past 10 years may be judged from the p.m. yesterday while driving his car, fact that in the administrative county of London, issues of books have risen from 14,512,112 in 1928 to 19,-941,654 last year.

Bringing Up Father

WHY ARE WE N THE WAR?

By Sir Norman Angeli

IT IS OF COURSE the duty of civilised men everywhere to try to understand the nature of this conflict if only because all peoples will sooner or later be called upon to give vital decisions arising from it; to sanction or oppose action by their governments in respect of it.

achieved we must face facts which Japan's impunity in its violation of both the British and the French show | law in Manchuria was largely accountin denosition to ignore or even hide, able for Italian violation in Abyssinia; Yet they are facts which if brought for German occupation of the Rhinemore clearly into light and their signi- land: for German-Italian invasion of ficance more fully revealed, would | Spain; for the annexation of Austria, show the cause for which France and Memel, the Sudetenland, Slovakia. And by a policy of saying to states like Japan, curious paradox it is a cause which Italy, and Germany: "We don't care will be betrayed unless the facts we now seem to desire to hide are squarely faced and their significance realised.

Neither Britain nor France has been attacked by Germany. The democracies are not fighting to repel attacks upon their own soil, upon themselves, or even upon a democracy, and most of the democratic states of the Continent-Switzerland, the Low Countries, and the Scandinavian States-are neutral.

Britain and France are fighting to defend the independence of a state on the other side of Europe which is hardly a democracy, if a democracy at all, whose frontiers represent a status quo which many Britons and French-and Americans—have in the past declared to be in some respects unjust, at best the least evil of bad alternatives. Those facts do not weaken the case of the allies. They strengthen it.

CHANGE IN PLEDGE POLICIES

Moreover the guarantees to Poland which now bring Britain into the are guarantees which years the present British Government | nations on the other side of Europe. and its predecessor had again and | This last was for years the really deagain declared ought never on any cisive argument of the nonintervenaccount to be assumed by a British government. had repeatedly argued that particularly ought Britain to refrain from giving such undertakings in eastern Europeand should as alternative policy tacitly acquiesce in German expansion in the east in return for German guarantees to respect the status quo in western Europe—anticipating in this the offer actually made by Herr Hitler to the British Government on Aug. 25 and again on Aug. 28.

Mr. Anthony Eden has described this sudden decision to guarantee states at the other end of Europe as a "profound revolution in British foreign policy." It could perhaps be better described as a definite triumph of one school of thought in the Cabinet and the country over a rival school in a long contest which had been going on for years-an incident of that contest having been the resignation of Mr. Eden himself in February of last year.

AGGRESSION PIECE BY PIECE The issue in that debate was quite simple: On one side were those who by word and deed that we are preargued that Britain's policy should pared to assist those countries which aim at checking aggression as such, anywhere, whether it appeared for the threatened and are ready to defend moment Britain was directly concerned or not; the British Commonwealtha collection of virtually independent ing to uphold the liberties of others states scattered over the whole world we run great risks of betraying the -could never be secure if aggressor states could with impunity pick off one by one Britain's potential allies, until finally it would find itself in the words | Lord Halifax has referred is one which of Mr. Winston Churchill, "facing its fate naked and alone."

Briain should therefore, ran the these: argument, base its defence upon the integrity of the law against aggression, fend the law, against violence when against violence, against war, irrespective of whether defiance of the law possible to defend ourselves when we was directed against the

If such understanding is to be against others. It was pointed out that what you do to others so long as you leave us alone" was declared by this school to be morally contemptible and politically short-sighted. The principle underlying such a view will be more fully defined in a moment. VIEWS OF RIVAL SCHOOLS

As against the view that Britain should resist aggression as such, defend law as such, the rival school argued that this principle would turn every local dispute into a world war; that to give undertakings to defend this, that, or the other state was to place control of British foreign policy "in the hands of a lot of foreign nations," as Sir John Simon put it recently in the House of Commons; that Britain could be neither kn'ght errant nor policeman of man, ind and should confine its intervention to those cases in which it had direct strategic interest: Belgium, France, Egypt, Iraq, certain points of the Far East; that—most powerful argument of all—British public opinion would never for an infor stant sanction war on behalf of strange

About a year ago this write was present at a small gathering of members of Parliament, former Caor Germany in the Rhineland, or Austria, or Czechoslovakia; that isolationist opinion in British would simply Other supporters of the Government | have destroyed a British Government proposing to go to war on behalf of a small state on the other side of Europe. On this point the whole group, with possible two exceptions, had no doubts whatever; it was completely positive, certain, dogmatic.

> "REVOLUTION" CAME QUICKLY And that overwhelming majority of representative, informed Englishmen, so positive, so certain, so dogmatic, were of course completely wrong, or the British public did not really know how it would feel and act when aggression had sached a certain stage. For when Prime Minister Chamberlain gave his guarantee to Poland—so infinitely more dangerous than any guarantee he could have given to Manchuria or Abyssinia—the whole nation accepted it without demur. "The revolution" of policy was accomplished from one day to another.

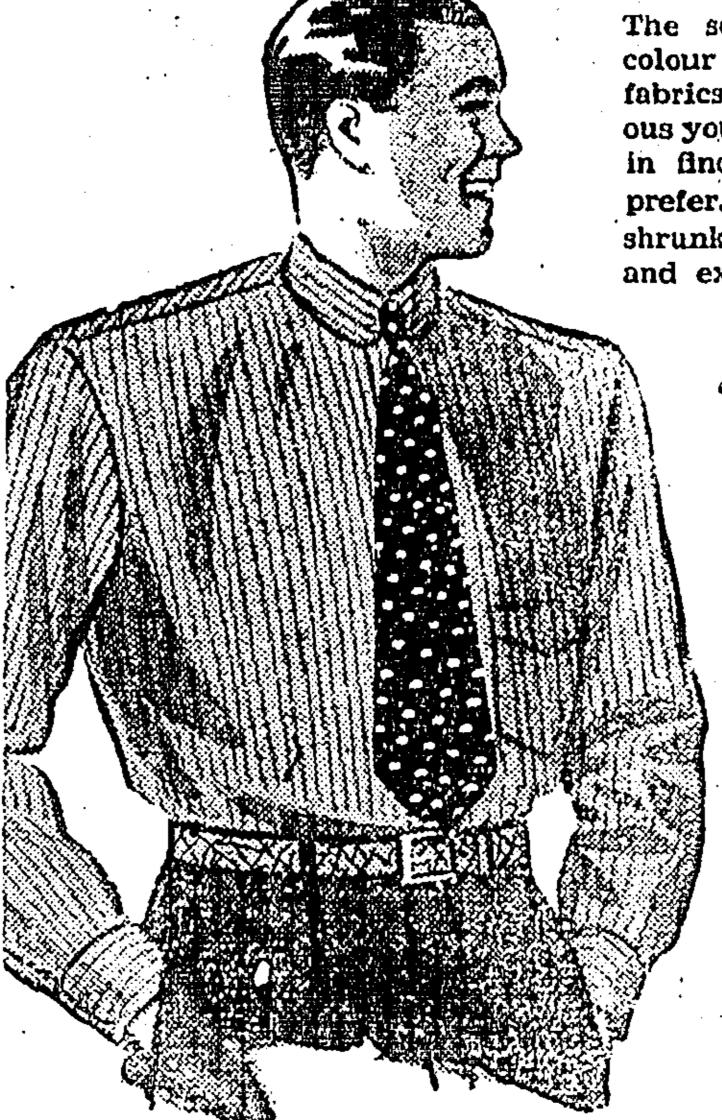

In his statement of Aug. 24 the Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax said: "We have tried to make it clear feel their independence immediately their freedom...that is why we gave our undertaknig to Poland . . . In failprinciple of liberty itself, and with it our own freedom and independence."

THE FUTURE OF CIVILISATION

Will a victory of Britain and France mean a victory for that consutuuonai principle, so mat hencelotal it will be evident to aggressors that they will have to meet not merely the power of their intended victim, but the power OI a large part or crompamon; it man is indeed the principle for which our countries are ugnung and it triumpas, then meir triumpn will in a very exact sense save civilisation; will help the world to end mar anarchy, undi avsence in the international neld of all law against violence which lies at the root or war; will give to force in the international neid the office which is has within nations—the office of withstanding violence by confective defence of the victim so that law and reason may prevail.

But, that triumph depends upon a conaution which snoula be of especial interest to readers of The Unrishan Science Monitor, the condition namely of peneving aeeply that this is maeeu the purpose of our arms. If we mink that the mere deteat of Germany will of itself give us peace we shall, or course, iau, for we deseated Germany 21 years ago and that deleat and our victory has not given peace. That costly victory proved funie necause after--Mard armoren each was Aming to app force to detend himself, we were not willing to use it to derend law when others and not ourselves happened to be the victim of its violation. If is re-SUIT OF THIS WAT WE are prought to realise that only so can force be made an instrument of peace, security, and justice, and the lesson is carried to the world, then our agonies will not have been in vain.—"Christian Science Monitor."

Riga, Latvia, September 8.

IN A DANZIG HOTEL LOBBY I heard a German officer who usually slept late leave a call for 3.15 the next morning — Friday, September 1, writes an "Associated Press" staff correspondent. I realised then that it was coming.

It was 4.47 a.m. by my watch when the firing started. I couldn't place it as I ran down the hotel stairs several steps at a time.

The night watchman said: "Es geht los." (It's started.)

I ran toward the Vistula River. There I saw what it was - the German Cruiser Schleswig-Holstein firing on the Polish munitions depot of Westerplatte.

Already the cruiser's white sides were blackened from the powder of the shells it was pouring onto the heavily-wooded Westerplatte Peninheavily-wooded Westerplatte Peninsula from its 18-centimeter and 28centimeter guns.

Strangely, I found a taxi that took me to the former customs house From there I climbed a hill behind the lines.

ALL APPROACHES GUARDED Below, German soldiers were guarding all approaches to the waterfront and clearing the entire harbour district of thousands of civilians to clear the way for the air raids that were to come. Windows all through the district were smashed by the force of the explosions of the shells from the cruiser.

The Schleswig-Holstein was standing out in the harbour, not far off shore Beyond the peninsula, in Danzig Bay, were other ships of the German fleet.

Between the two forces lay the Ititle Peninsula, completely surrounded by enemy territory and offering no chance for retreat or escape. Poles seemed to be drawing back, strictly on the defensive, and their firing apparently had no definite ob-

After an hour of shelling from the Schleswig-Holstein, I saw a German landing party set out. But their attempt to storm the Poles failed. cross-fire of machine-guns, the Poles' chief armament, drove them back with heavy losses.

LAND IN DESERTED CITY

But when it was all over a rattle of machine-guns showed the Poles still were deflant. During the next days more shells followed, and still the Poles held fast.

Even Danzigers began talking about the "Polish fanatics," and to puzzle over the Germans' inability to capture the defenders and seize the munitions depot that was granted Poland by treaty FOUND TRAVELLING SLOW As the German Gestapo (secret police) and the troops elamped down further restrictions and Danzig became a locked-up city, I decided leave. The Gestapo said they had "no objection" to my going, but still it took an entire day to get a pass.

By way of Kalthos, on the Danzig side of East Prussia, I finally reached Marienburg. Three German troops already were in charge and I had some difficulty with examination of my passport and questioning of the Gestapo pass because it gave no specific permission to travel.

To-day, when word came to Riga that the white flag had been raised over Westerplatte, these Poles and recent arrivals from Danzig took the news with a mixture of skepticism and (Adolf Hitler's order of the day relief that the uneven struggle was

New York, Sept 11. The ill wind in Europe is blowing a lot of American dollars into the pockets of American map makers and sellers. Reigntuhrer Hitler's invasion of Poland on Sept. 1 caught map makers empty handed, so to speak, Andrew McNally of Rand, McNally & Company said, but the presses are working at top speed to give Amerlcans something to stick little red pins

"In the first 24 hours of the war," Mr. McNally said, "our stock was completely exhausted. We sold map. of Europe, maps of Poland, of Germany and France, as well as atlases. We sold more maps than we had sold since 1918."

Moreover, he said, the Company sold out the maps it imports from Germany and England. Everything went as the guns boomed and men marched.

McNally said his Company's latest map, which probably will be ready for distribution in a week, will show in detail the fortifications of the western front-France's Maginot Line and Germany's Siegfried Line.

The outbreak of the war caught map makers with low stocks because Herr Hitler's policy had engendered a certain hesitancy in map publishers. Boundaries had been changing from month to month.

REFUGEES

Washington, Sept. 6. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, said the Government was considering every means of going forward with its program for the relief of German refugees, despite the war.

He said it was likely that the President's conference on refugees scheduled for next month would be held regardless.

Mr. Hull conferred with Myron C.

Taylor, American representative on the Intergovernmental. Committee on Refugees. Mr. Taylor went to the White House for luncheon with the President after his talk with Mr. Hull. Mr. Taylor, former chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, said he could no comment on the conversation. War has raised several important questions regarding 'the refugee work. One is whether the Gerlin Government will continue to permit Pewish young people to leave Germany since their services may be required in war work.

Another is now to get Jewish refugees across the Atlantic in view of the necessity for evacuating Americans and of the shutdown of many steamship services, particularly the German lines.

PLANNED WISELY

Swegles reported that the ghouls planned to take careful measurements of the distance between the place of burial and the nearest tree, in order that there should be no difficulty in disinterment after the ransom should be paid. A convicted counterfeiter, of a dozen aliases, but generally known as Ben Boyd, and who was then serving a term in the United States Penitentiary, was said to have been selected to carry on negotiations for the ransom. Boyd's freedom, it was alleged, would be one of the conditions under which the body would be returned.

That Boyd might prove to the authorities that he had accurate knowledge of the whereabouts of the corpse, it was decided that a page of some foreign newspaper was to be raggedly torn in half, one fragment being left in the Lincoln tomb, where it might be found when the body was missed, and the other being held by Boyd. He was to let it be known that he could solve the mystery if given a pardon and to produce his claims he was to produce the missing half of the newspaper page, thus demonstrating to the authorities without doubt his connection with the affair.

DATE OF CRIME CHOSEN Continuous reports from Swegles indicated that he was in close confidence with the conspirators. Early in November he warned the Secret Service men that the night of Tuesday, November 7, 1876, had been chosen for the crime this, date being that of the Hayes-Tilden election. That particular time was selected because it was believed that the excitement incident to the receiving of election returns would shield the ghouls from any possible attention. The Secret Service men planned to hide in the tomb and allow the ghouls to actually steal the body before pouncing upon them, but the dead President's son, Robert T. Lincoln, who had been taken into the confidence of the detectives, protested against their allowing the plot to proceed to the point where profane hands might actually be laid upon his father's coffin. So it was agreed that the criminals should be caught in the tomb while endeavouring to open the

LEAVE CHICAGO

The detectives' accompany, Swegles, reported that he and to of the conspirators would leave Chicago on the evening before election day and Tyrrell, the Secret Service operative, who had uncerthed the case saw his "stoolpigeon" with two determined looking men jump aboard the Alton train-leaving Chicago at 9 P. M. With two detectives Tyrrell boarded same express and the six men at opposite ends of the train arrived at Springfield that night.

ARMY SPORTLIGHT

MOST of the Army sides made their season's debut in local League football over the week-end with a mixed degree of success. Six teams won their games, two drew and seven lost. In four cases Army teams were opposed to other Army sides so the net result is not so unfavourable as it first appears.

One of the most fancied sides in Third Division, 24th Heavy Battery. R.A., went down rather unexpectedly to the civilian side Electric. However, they were far from disgraced as the game was very even and the winning goal was only scored just before the end. I do not think they played nearly as good football as they were playing at the end of last season, the lack of their old dash being very noticeable.

I did a good deal of snooping round the grounds-trying-to-spot_any_players who are likely to make names for themselves this season. I was not so successful as I anticipated, but there is not much doubt that many new names will be seen in the Army team during the season.

Hossack of the Scots I think will retain his place, but will do so at centre forward, not as an outside right, the position he is at present filling in his battalion side. The only other members of the Scots side who may earn a trial are Fraser, Nay-Smith and Falconer. The latter will have to compete with Bright of the Middlesex for the centre half position and I fayour the latter.

Sheehan the "Diehard" stalwart of course has made the left back position his own and I do not anticipate anything but an injury keeping him out of the side.

NE of the main problems seems to be to find a good goalkeeper this season. Duncan of the Scots is not playing for the battalion side apparently, and he may have decided to give time, before the season proper opens The following are the teams taking up football. Minshull of the R.A. but too long in junior football has not done him any good and he has a lot of faults to remedy.

Wing half backs seem pretty easy to find and one who impressed me greatly was Hills of 24 Battery. He is fast and a sure tackler, but wants to combat a tendency of trying to be too tricky. Rides of the Ordnance will again be available and should be a certainty for the Army side at left Difficulty is going to be experienced with the selection of forwards. I pre-'sume Courtney of the Middlesex will be out of the game for some time owing to his unfortunate accident and the Army have thus lost the "brains" of their attack. In the absence of anyone better I think Duffleld will be outside left. If it is decided to play Hossack at outside right Munton of R.A.O.C. might well be brought in at centre forward as he is undoubtedly one of the best, if not the best Army centre forward here. He would have obtained his place last season but for an injury. Pelham the Royal Engineer forward could be given a trial in one of the inside positions. He is a hard worker but his small stature is a handicap.

- Hills of R.A.S.C. should definitely be included in any trial, but as he plays at right back or right half it may be difficult to fit him into the side. Glen the Service Corps outside right might well gain his place, but he is handicapped at present, not being able to give of his best through playing with

At the end of last season it looked as though the Army would have a good team this year, but many of the players have now left and the prospects are not quite so bright at the present time.

EEW new names appear in the Army Cricket' sides selected for next Saturday's opening games. Both sides (Continued on Mage 18)

WINING GOLF

NE sure way to improve your golf game is to make a resolution that you will practice more often during the coming year. But making a resolution and keeping it for a full year is another thing, so in my own case I am making a resolution to keep the resolution, to practice more—and I'm going to keep them both.

RESOLUTIONS are fine things if tice can be for your game. they are lived up to - this one about practising golf may give some of our brother golfers some difficulty. They may feel that golf cannot be practised when there is a cold wind blowing.

But some of the finest practice possible can be done during the winter months—and right in your home, too. Think back over your play of the last season and study the worst part of your game-where were most of your missed shots—what made you take those high scores?

The chances are that the short game did as much as anything else to keep your handicap higher than it should be. Some while ago I recommended A a little serious putting practice on the rug—putting on a rug requires a keen ing the correct or rather the safe way touch because the rug is usually much to swing a club in your living room. faster than the average green. Another point that the committee would do well to consider is the habit of players playing for more than one club during the season. This season there has been no instances of players doing so but there were in past seasons.

There should be no rule against permitting a player of a club playing for another after the commencement of the season but before doing so he should apply for permission to transfer. The Lawn Bowls Association would not normally withhold such permission if it were satisfied that the motive of, the transfer was honest.

SHEK-O SENIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

The Senior Championship of Shek-O Club was played on Sunday, over 36 holes and resulted as follows:-

1st: Major A. S. Johnstone—69 plus 73 = 142.

2nd: T. A. Pearce—72 plus 72= 144.

3rd: O. E. C. Marton-73 plus 72 = 145.

4th: R. Young—74 plus 74 = 148. The result of the morning Bogey Pool was a tie between the following:— Major A. S. Johnstone-69 minus 2 = 67.

J. Stenersen-75 minus 8=67. The afternoon Bogey Pool was won by R. R. de L. Liesching, 75 minus 8 = 67.

are playing against the Indian Recreation Club, the first eleven on the latter's ground and the second eleven at Sookunpoo.

A surprise inclusion is L/Sgt. Dilnot in the first eleven. He has a good reputation, however, and it will be interesting to see how he gets on. Q.M.S. Patterson who played regularly for the second eleven last year has stepped up to the first eleven in this match.

The second eleven is fairly strong, Captains Lawrence, and Dewar being included. Major Harvey and Major Templer are also in the side.

VIRULENT ATTACK ON SOVIET IN TALIAN JOURNAL

Rome, To-day.

A VIOLENT ATTACK on Russia, with a special section to Marshal Voroshilov, the Red Army leader, is contained in Marshal Balbo's newspaper.

The newspaper rebukes certain Italian newspapers he newspaper rebukes certain transitions. The for favourable references to Russia when the German-Soviet past was signed.

CRASH INTO RICKSHAS

MR. A. L. DALZIEL, OF NO. 26, MODY ROAD, REPORTED TO THE POLICE LAST NIGHT THAT WHILST DRIVING HIS CAR, NO. 5110, ALONG NATHAN ROAD, HE CRASHED INTO TWO RICKSHAS. He explained that near Middle Road

CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S MESSAGE

Chungking, To-day.

"Before China wins the final victory there can be no genuine peace," declared Generalissimo Chiang, Kai-shek in a manifesto on National Independence Day to-day.

"Until the enemy experience the full weight of China's strength of resistance we can hope for no true awakening from them," the Generalissimo.

Reminding the people that the war of resistance will be long and arduous, he exhorted them not to fear hardships or hope for speed success.

"We must not hope for the early conclusion of the war, nor the immediate withdrawal of the enemy, nor their abandonment of aggression right away."

It is apparent that once national consciousness has been aroused, no outside force can impede its growth.

China has already built a firm foundation diplomatically, economically and militarily, and success depends now to a large measure upon the determination and spirit of sacrifice of the Chinese people. The spirit of struggle will hereafter be more important than more military strength.

more military strength. The whole nation must shatter the enemy's political and economic offensives in addition to their military advance. A spirit of loyalty to the State must be fostered at the front, in the rear and in enemy-occupied areas. Guerilla warfare must be intensified. Shops, factories, mines, warehouses and other establishments operated by the enemy in the occupied areas and all communications including railways, highways, telegraphs, telephones, and stations must be destroyed. Sabotage activities must be continued daily so that the enemy can not enjoy a single day's peace,. nor set their hands to any of their economic reconstruction schemes. - Central News.

Chungking, To-day.

Sir Archibald Clark Kerr paid
a courtesy call on Dr. Wang
Chung-hui, Minister of Foreign Affairs, yesterday.—Central News.

A motorist, Mr. R. D. Bullock, of No. 12, Duke Street, Kowloon Tong, collided with a Chinese cyclist at 3.55 p.m. yesterday on Nathan Road near Austin Road. The cyclist, 18-year-old Yim Lai, was sent to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment to injuries to face and arms.

The new Dalai Lama, the fiveyear-old Chinese boy, arrived in a state procession at Lhasa on Saturday.

A solemn enthronement ceremony was previously performed at Rigya, near Lhasa, and was attended by the Regent of Tibet, the Prime Minister and other members of the Cabinet, the Dalai Lama's parents, and a crowd of thousands.

Representatives of the British, Nepalese and Chinese Governments were also present.

After his arrival, the Dalai Lama visited the Cathedral and then proceeded to Norbhulingka Palace, his future residence, where a ceremony similar to that held in Rigya was carried out.—Reuter.

London, To-day. Authoritative replies to Hitler's Reichstag speech will be delivered in speeches by Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier within the next few days. Meanwhile, opinion in both Britain and France and in the Dominions as expressed through press and in public speeches has condemned out of hand proposals unsupported by adequate guarantees. The reception of the speech in neutral countries has been scarcely less chilling. Nowhere is there a sign that any neutral country will take the initiative offered by Fuehrer. Signor Mussolini in a recent speech made no reference to Hitler's plan. Japan has denounced it. The sovereigns of Holland and Belgium decline to intervene. In the United States, Senator Key Pittman, in declaring that President Roosevelt may make another effort for peace, adds significantly "but not until a spirit of adjustment is manifest." "Newspapers in these and other neutral countries reveal recognition of the fact that the speech offers no opportunity for mediation by a third party. The Japanese newspaper "Yomiuri" considers it unthinkable that Britain and France will adopt Hitler's proposals. Why, it asks, did not Hitler try to bring about a materialisation of his peace ideals before the upheaval began, adding that despite Polish, British and French readiness to discuss a peaceful settlement, Hitler showed no sign of acquiescence. His speech, adds the newspaper, has little significance except as an attempt to shift the responsibility for the war to Britain and France. Commenting on the trend of neutral. opinion, the "Daily Telegraph" says there everywhere outside the frontiers of Nazi rule, Hitler's terms are seen to be futile.—British Wireless.
